Over the years, the minimum wage has been steadily mereased. The number and classifications of workers accored have been steadily broadened. Regulation has been imposed upon regulation. The invariable result has been a decline in job opportunities for the unskilled and the beginner.

This is particularly notable in certain service industries. Retailing is a prime example. By the nature of the business, it can employ, often on a part-time, week-end and after-school basis, considerable numbers of people whose productive value is small. The employment provides them with an opportunity to develop skills and experience which will qualify them for better obs later. But if law-imposed costs of such employment become excessively high, the stores will pare it to the Tregoning. The rites were perlimit. And then the opportunity to learn is lost.

A. L. Foster, who has been in charge of the operating department of the Grayling DuPont plant since its beginning about two years dent. C. M. Morfit of Wilmington. Del., arrived Tuesday to succeed Mr. Foster.

For several weeks past machinery has been arriving for the new shoe repairing shop that was opened by E. J. Olson last week for ousiness. The shop is located next oor to the Central Drug Store. A feature he is specializing in is putting new rubber bottoms onto leather tops. This will be appre-ciated by woodsmen and other outdoor workers.

The third annual party of the Grayling Lodge of Knights of Pythias was held at the school auditorium Wednesday evening. There were about 175 couples preent and many extra ladies. Danring to Russo's orchestra of Traverse City was enjoyed during the vening. The ballroom decorations vore simple but pretty. In one corner of the room was a booth where punch and sandwiches were served beginning at 11 o'clock. J. Fred Alexander was chairman of the executive committee of the

Miss Margaret Jenson, who has en employed at the postoffice for the past couple of years, has resigned her position and accepted position as assistant in the Salling: Hanson Company office.

A. E. Hendrikson, our South Side merchant tailor, was in Lewiston last week and while there purchased 80 acres of land near that vicinity. Mr. Hendrikson says that next spring he will spend a few weeks on the land and do some clearing and planting.

It has been from one to fifteen below zero every night and sometimes the mercury crowded around zero all day. There has been but one thaw since winter set in, and that was January 29th and that only settled the snow for better leighing.
